GALE MAY HIT SNAG IN CLAIM TO POSTOFFICE

Critics of Methods Employed in Selecting Successors to Democratic Incumbents are Busy—"Insurgents" Punished, It is Charged.

THE LIMA NEWS BUREAU
Washington, November 28

WASHINGTON—(Special)—Indications of a brewing patronage storm in administration ranks, coupled with charges by Democrats in Washington that the Republicans are flouting the civil service rules in the appointment of postmasters, may have a considerable effect upon Ohio cities, notably at Lima, Hamilton and other points, where postmastership vacancies are about to be filled.

The principal charges made by critics of the present methods in the Postoffice Department are to the effect that the examinations held to select postmasters in first, second and third class offices, are being "set up" for the choice of interested Republican congressmen and that Democratic incumbents with several years of their terms to run are being evicted from office on trumped up charges.

Additional color was given to these charges Monday when it was intimated by Wisconsin congressmen, all Republicans but foes of the administration on important measures, recently voted on in the House, that the White House is duplicating the policy inaugurated under Taft of withdrawing all federal patronage from recalcitrant members of House and Senate.

The Wisconsin delegation in the House cast a solid vote against the President on the recent sur-tax amendment and about half the delegation voted against the tariff bill, the revenue bill and other important measures backed by the administration during the recent special session.

Representatives Joseph D. Beck, John M. Nelson, and Florian L. Lampert, of Wisconsin, members of the "insurgent" group in the House, have joined in a protest that their recommendations of postmasters are being ignored by the Postoffice Department and that appointments previously sent to the Senate with their approval are being held up or withdrawn.

INSURGENTS PUT UP KICK

The Wisconsin "insurgents," who have been voting regularly with the Democrats in the House on important bills, point to the fact that recommendations are being observed in the cases of their colleagues from Wisconsin who have been amenable to the leadership of Mondell, Campbell, Fordney and the other Republican chiefs in the House.

A test case will be made, the Badger congressmen declare, of the appointment recently made at Benton, Wisconsin. Representative Nelson recommended the appointment of the commander of the local American Legion post who had been given a preferential rating by the Civil Service commission. The congressman's recommendation and the preferential rating were overruled, Wisconsin members claim, and the President sent to the Senate for confirmation the name of a candidate who had political affiliations with the "regulars." The nomination is being held up in the Senate and is expected to be a focal point in the approaching patronage "row" in the Senate.

Whether members of the Ohio delegation will be affected by what is alleged to be the new policy of the administration in respect to federal patronage is a matter of conjecture among Buckeye congressmen here.

Half the delegation broke with the President on the sur-tax amendment, including Representative John G. Cooper, in whose district two of the most important offices in eastern Ohio at Youngstown and Warren, are about to be filled. Representative C. L. Knight, Akron, who would under ordinary circumstances dictate the appointments at Kent and Lorain, voted against the tariff bill in the House and has been "irregular" on other occasions.

MAY AFFECT GALE

Another important appointment will soon be made, at Lima, following the resignation of Postmaster James E. Sullivan and the appointment of Colonel Albert E. Gale as acting postmaster on recommendation of Representative John L. Cable. Cable has voted with the Democrats on several important roll-calls since he entered Congress March 4.

Of more immediate interest to residents of the Ohio cities involved are charges made here that the so-called "open competitive examinations" to which candidates are required by the President's executive order to submit, are not being properly administered. Senator Pomerene recently took the floor in the Senate and protested that the rules are not being observed as they were prior to March 4 and the Ohio Senator's charges were renewed just before adjournment by a number of Democratic members.

The critics of the administration declare that Postmaster General Hays has encouraged the practice of determining the choice of each congressman for postmasterships in his district prior to the holding of the examinations and that the requirements have been made so broad that the congressman's choice can always be certified as eligible, on the list of three submitted to the congressman for recommendation.

Numerous cases of removals of Democratic postmasters before the expiration of their terms is cited as evidence that the administration is not observing civil service regulations and precedents set under the Wilson regime. The announcement Saturday of the removal of the Democratic postmaster at Alton, Ill., and the appointment of the Republican chairman of the county, marked the third removal of a Democratic postmaster within a few months in Illinois, the other removals taking place at East St. Louis and Rockford, two of the largest cities in the state, outside of Chicago. Republican committeemen were appointed acting postmaster in each instance.

EXAMS ANNOUNCED

Examinations are to be held within the next few weeks to fill vacancies in many of the most important first and second class postoffices in Ohio.

In each case, candidates for the postmastership will be required to file a sworn statement, following a form obtainable at any postoffice, stating qualifications for appointment.

Sworn statements must be filed on or before December 20 by candidates in the following first class offices, the salary being stated in each case:

Youngstown, $4,500; Warren, $3,700; Hamilton, $3,700; Marion, $3,600; Lorain, $3,500; Chillicothe, $3,400; Kent, $3,300; Athens, $3,200.

Statements must be filed by candidates on or before December 13 in the following second class offices:

New Philadelphia, $3,000; Norwalk, $3,000; Oxford, $2,800; London, $2,700; Sebring, $2,700; Wadsworth, $2,600; Napoleon, $2,600; Ada, $2,500; Jefferson, $2,300; New Concord, $2,300.

U. S. MAY TREAT WITH RUSSIA

Soviet Declared Ready to Meet Demanded Guarantees

MOSCOW—(By United Press)—Georg Tchitcherin, soviet minister of foreign affairs, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, today declared America has "unofficially prescribed three prerequisites to establishing negotiations with Russia.

The soviets are prepared to offer these guarantees, he said.

The unofficial demands of America, Tchitcherin said, are:

That America must be convinced a stabilized government has been established in Russia.

That the soviets recognize the private property rights.

The assurance that no "terror" exists under this rule.

Tchitcherin did not give the source of this "unofficial" demand from the United States government. He outlined the proposals in explaining reports of several days ago that "a Russian mission might be sent to Washington" to negotiate trade relations.

MUCH HINGES ON GUN LOCATION

Search Renewed Monday For Revolver Nierengarten Used

BROTHER OF BELLHOP HERE

Hint Given That Confession May Be Repudiated

Finding of the missing revolver with which Harold Nierengarten confesses he shot and killed "Scotty" Kershaw, Sunday, November 20, may result in the trial of the case being brought back to Allen-co, it was learned Monday.

In his confession, Nierengarten said he shot Kershaw just after the train sped thru Cridersville. The village is about a half mile south of the Allen-co line.

The bank book thrown off the train was found about a mile and a half south of the station.

RENEW SEARCH FOR GUN

Police again took up the quest Monday for the revolver which was thrown off the train before the bank book was cast away.

The train was traveling at a rate in excess of 30 miles an hour. If the officers are successful in finding the weapon, the distance between the spot where it is picked up and the point where the bank book was discovered will give some idea of the exact location where the murder was committed.

Nierengarten in his confession fixed the location as just south of Cridersville.

Could he shoot Kershaw four times, drag the body back, rifle the pockets, tear up two letters, throw the revolver away and then the bank book in the three minutes which it necessarily took the train to travel from Cridersville to the point where the book was found?

It is a knotty problem to solve. One which might keep an algebra class guessing. Its solution may give Allen-co the right to the prisoner.

MAY REPUDIATE CONFESSION

Possible repudiation of the confession made Friday night was forecasted Monday by relatives of Harold Nierengarten. His brother, Leo Nierengarten, arrived from Uniontown, Pennsylvania, late Saturday night, and at once put machinery in motion.

Leo Nierengarten journeyed to Wapakoneta Sunday and saw his brother in the presence of an officer. According to the elder brother, Harold seemed cheerful and expressed confidence that he will come out all right.

"After seeing and talking with him," Leo Nierengarten said, "I feel much better, as I learned new angles to the case."

Preparations to employ the best of legal talent were on foot Monday, Leo Nierengarten stated but the name of the attorney to be employed is withheld.

NO MOVE AT WAPAK

No new moves in the case were made by Wapakoneta authorities up to Monday noon.

Carl Timmermeister, county prosecutor, said there was no idea at present of calling a special session of the grand jury to consider the Kershaw murder. This means that the case may be held over to the January session.

Regular meals were served Nierengarten Thursday and he was fed while here Friday night. Stories that Nierengarten was starved into making the confession were denied by Dawson.

P. A. Kershaw, father of Nierengarten's victim, Monday still adhered to the belief that robbery was the motive of the crime Nierengarten confessed he committed. Kershaw is making an effort to locate his son's discharge papers, which he says the youth carried on his person.

DISCHARGE MISSING

He fears that Nierengarten may have torn up the discharge and cast the bits out of the car door, along with scraps of letters he says he found in "Scotty's" apparel and reduced to bits.

Kershaw was interested Monday in the renewed search being made along the B. & O. railroad for the death gun.

Young Kershaw had no insurance of any kind, his father said Monday. He carried a war risk policy, on which he made payments for some time after being discharged from the army, but allowed the payments to lapse on a $10,000 policy. Kershaw said Monday that he is of the opinion Nierengarten believed his victim carried a large sum of money.

U. S. Holiday Idea Denounced at Tokio Mass Meeting

OWN ENVOYS THREATENED

Conference Relinquishes Postoffice Rights in China

TOKIO—(By Associated Press)—Resolutions opposing the 5-5-3 naval ratio contained in the American naval holiday proposal and favoring the abolition of fortifications in the Pacific ocean, were adopted by a mass meeting in Shibea Park today. A number of Tokio publicists addressed the meeting.

Beside the publicists who urged adoption of the resolutions, Vice Admiral Kozumi delivered an address in which he was quoted as saying that if the Japanese delegates accepted the sixty per cent naval ratio for Japan instead of securing the seventy per cent ratio, "the people will not only prevent them from landing at Yokohama upon their return but will appeal to the throne to reserve ratification" of the agreements reached at the conference.

CHINA RIGHTS ABANDONED

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press)—A resolution declaring for relinquishment of foreign postoffice privileges in China was adopted today by the nine powers sitting as a committee on Pacific and Far Eastern questions.

The date of January 1, 1923, was set for the abandonment of foreign postoffices and this was agreed to by all the powers represented except Japan, whose representatives asked for time to hear from their government.

The Japanese delegates, it was said, did not object to January 1, 1923, as the date for abandoning their postoffices, but felt that they did not have the authority to agree to that date without referring the matter to Tokio.

TERRITORIAL RIGHTS

The nine powers committee deferred final action until tomorrow on the question of extra territorial rights in China. The principle of closing foreign courts in China, it was said, was agreed to but consideration of the formal resolution went over.

Chinese representatives at today's meeting brought up the domestic control of Chinese railways. The question, however, went over for consideration at another meeting of the full nine powers tomorrow morning.

The Chinese railway question, according to Chinese representatives, would necessarily involve the matter of Shantung, which is regarded as one of the big problems with which the Washington conference may have to deal, so far as Far Eastern affairs are concerned.

ALGER MARSHAL IS AGAIN ON JOB

Recovers From Injuries Received In Saturday Fight

Marshal Jack Cochran, of Alger, who was beaten up in a free for all battle with three alleged moonshiners Saturday, is recovering and is back on duty, it was learned Monday.

A posse of armed citizens, together with the Hardin-co sheriff and three Kenton police officers pursued the Kentuckians over the onion marsh into a dense woods, where the trail was lost. The band of alleged distillers was led by Jerry Burton.

The attack on the marshal occurred outside Burton's house. Later a search of the place was made and part of a still is alleged to have been discovered. No arrests have been made, it is stated.

WOMEN INDUCTED

Made Traffic Cops as Result of Strike in New York

NEW YORK — (By Associated Press)—Women traffic cops made their bow to the New York public today. At all intersections in the vicinity of public schools women police reserves were on duty. They were called out to replace 2,500 patrolmen who are on duty protecting milk wagons during the milk handlers' strike.

Most of the women reserves are housewives, but among the number are business women, lawyers and physicians.

Whistles are the sole weapons of the volunteer force. All wore a uniform consisting of a dark blue jacket and skirt, with a light blue vest, and a semi-military cap.

Permission has been granted for the use of umbrellas in case of rain.

22 YALE STUDENTS AMONG INJURED

New Haven Movie House is Swept by Flames

MANY TRAMPLED IN PANIC

Blaze Starts From Burning Incense in "The Sheik"

NEW HAVEN Conn. — (By Associated Press) — Three lives were lost and 73 persons were more or less seriously injured when fire broke out in the Rialto motion picture theatre here last night. It is possible that further search of the ruins of the playhouse will add one more name to the list of dead, as R. H. Perrigo, of this city, has not been seen since the fire was discovered, and the panic-stricken crowd surged toward the doors of the theatre. His son was among the injured.

Fifty-eight persons who were either burned or trampled by the crowd which stormed toward the exits when the flames swept into the theatre from the stage, were in hospitals today. Twenty-one who were taken to hospitals when the fire was raging were given treatment and sent to their homes. Twenty-two of the injured were Yale students. All will recover, it was declared.

ONLY ONE IDENTIFIED

Only one body, that of Timothy J. Hanlon, 58, had been identified this morning. It was believed he was trampled to death, as examination of his injuries showed his neck was broken.

Two other bodies taken from the theatre were burned so badly that identification was impossible. One was the body of an elderly woman and the other was that of a young man, apparently about 20 years of age.

Coroner Mix began an official inquiry into the disaster early today. "We are inclined to the belief," he said, "that the fire might have been kindled by incense burned during the photoplay being shown at the Rialto. This play, 'The Sheik,' was being given an Oriental setting and incense was being burned on the stage. It may be that the flames caught some draperies and dropped onto the stage of the theatre."

Lawrence W. Carroll, manager of the theatre, and James Carter, his assistant, who were detained by the authorities after the fire, were later released upon their own recognizance to appear at the coroner's hearing.

CROWD IN PANIC

The playhouse was crowded at 7:30 o'clock, and preliminary features of the entertainment were being completed when the fire was discovered. Sparks were seen dropping down in front of the silver screen upon which the picture was to be projected. There was a shout of "fire" and panic seized the crowd.

In an instant there was a rush for the open air, but it appeared most of the people tried to get out the main entrance instead of using the emergency exits at the sides of the theatre. Many cool-headed persons attempted to restrain the crowd, shouting there was no danger, but their work was futile, as was that of the orchestra, which continued to play for some minutes after the first alarm was given. Those who tried to stem the human tide were swept in the crowd which crushed its way toward the doors.

LEAP FROM BALCONY

Many who had seats in the balcony of the theatre leaped over the rails and fell on the heads of the struggling people below.

Children in the crowd poured toward the exits of the theatre and their parents were in many cases injured while trying to lift them above the press about them.

The theatre building was a frame structure which burned like matchwood. Yale students were active in the work of rescue, dashing into the burning structure and assisting the people to safety.

LIFE BATTLE ON

Unusual Operation to be Made on Ohio Baby

PORTSMOUTH, O. — (By Associated Press.) — A seven pound son born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. John Brewer, has been taken to Cincinnati by Dr. William Seitz to be operated upon by a specialist of the Queen City in an attempt to save its life.

It was born without any means for the elimination of the waste matter from the body and will be operated upon by Dr. Shewman, Cincinnati surgeon, who will endeavor to provide artificial means of relief that will make the child's chances of living better. Other external organs are also undeveloped, the baby being normal in every other way.

The mother is the very picture of health and two other sons born to the family are in good health.

The baby is similar to that of a baby born over a year ago when a physician refused to operate to save the baby's life, the physician being sued for damages later.

SWEET STRANGER

By BERTHA RUCK

A NEW NOVEL STARTS TODAY

IN THIS issue of The News appears the opening chapter of a new serial by Bertha Ruck. "Sweet Stranger" is the title. Adventure, with a capital A, marks this latest offering of Bertha Ruck. An English officer, thru the personal column of a London newspaper, starts on a worldwide tour for a girl whom he has seen but once. And the possibilities of a start like that, you'll admit, are infinite. There's humor, mystery and in all a round good plot in the story. It's running length is approximately two weeks. START IT TODAY.

Thank Heavens! My brother Jim has started a fresh love affair! After what he has been thru these last two years....I, being his twin and only sister, quite feel that I went away to his school. I played in the football team. I won those silver cups on the track. I went up to Oxford when I was eighteen. I enlisted in an infantry regiment the day war broke out. I got the Military Medal and my commission. I fought on the Somme. I was twice wounded in 'Seventeen.' I was recommended for the D. S. O. And, just before the Armistice, I myself was decorated by the King at Buckingham Palace.

When he fell in love with That Girl (who was working at his hospital) it was a bitter surprise to me. She refused Jim—Jim! She married a major in the Gunners. It did Jim in for months and weary months. And now this has happened. Hooray!

This American girl sat opposite to us in the Tube train. Suddenly Jim sat up. He'd noticed....

The girl, I fancy, also noticed. (She faced us, in the last seat.) She glanced down at her wrist-watch. A long string of jade beads that she wore round her slim neck had worked itself out. She put up a hand to tuck the necklace in.

Snap! A broken string, a gleaming shower of beads. "Do let me's," "Oh, thank you's," and "I beg your pardon's." Three heads knocking together. Six hands groping under the seats and between the boards.

"There, I think that's the lot," said Jim holding out a handful of the jade beads.

"I thank you ever so much," replied the American girl pleasantly, stuffing them into her bag. "Those are all, I guess."

Then she gave an exclamation of dismay. "Oh, my little god! I've lost it. It must have rolled away under the boards——"

"What?" we asked together, again groping. "What else was there?"

"Why my little green——"

Here the train drew up with a jerk. "Brompton Road. Brompton Road!" shouted the conductor. "Hurry off there, if you please!"

"Oh, is this Brompton Road? Oh, mercy!" she sprang up and hurried towards the entrance.

We sat back in our seats once more. "By Jove! Here 'tis. Here's what she was looking for. It was in the turnup of my trousers all the time." Jim held on his palm a tiny jade idol on a broken loop.

"I say. She wanted that. Maybe a special mascot of hers or something," he murmured.

"What a pity that we didn't know who she was or where she was going—the girl, I mean," I said.

"Yes," said Jim absently; "I might find out, Mouse, mightn't I?"

"Find out what, Jim?"

"About that girl. Who she is. Everything."

How? I wonder. I shan't ask him.

(Two days later)

Jim showed me his first "try," the Personal Column of the London Times:

"FOUND!

"That little green god lost in the Tube near Brompton station. Will

7,319 TRUCKS ON OHIO FARMS

State Ranks Fourth in Number of These Machines

10,469 TRACTORS IN USE

Figures Given by Federal Bureau of Census

COLUMBUS. — (By Associated Press.)—Ohio ranks fourth of the states with the number of farm motor trucks, with 7,319, and ninth in the number of tractors, with 10,469, a report issued by the federal bureau of the census shows. One farm in every 35 in this state has a motor truck, and one in every 24, owns a tractor.

Pennsylvania, New York, and Iowa lead in the number of farm-owned trucks with 9372, 9259 and 8910, respectively, while Illinois boasts the greatest number of tractors, with 23,102. Iowa, Kansas, and Minnesota ranked next.

Automobiles were owned on 46 per cent of Ohio farms, and 62 per cent of them had telephones. Automobiles were reported for more than half the farms in Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Kansas, Minnesota, North Dakota, California, and Illinois. Not quite one out of six Ohio farms has water piped into the house, and about one out of seven farm houses has gas or electric light. In California, water is piped into more than half the farm houses.

Fifty-seven students in the beef cattle class of the animal husbandry department at Ohio State University have formed one of the first organizations of its kind in a college—a cooperative stock buying company to carry on experiments in buying, feeding, fitting and selling pure bred stock. Organization of the company was directed by Professor C. T. Conklin. The students have purchased two pure-bred Shorthorn heifers as their first business venture.

Officers and members of the executive committee of the company, accompanied by Professor Conklin, visited several Ohio herds recently and selected two animals of suitable breeding and individuality. One comes from the herd of R. D. McGinigle, Delaware, and the other from S. J. Denton and Sons, Mt. Gilead. These animals now are in the college stables, and are being fitted for the Ohio State Shorthorn sale, January 10 and 11, 1922.

Forty-six head of livestock from the Ohio State University farm are being shown at the International Livestock Show, which started in Chicago today. The number is made up of 18 sheep, 26 hogs, and 2 Percheron fillies, the pick of the University stock.

The Percherons were winners in the Futurity class at the state fair last fall.

The first dairy show at Ohio State University since 1916, will be held at the University armory during Farmers' week, January 30, to February 3, 1922. It will be held under the auspices of the Progressive Dairy Club, a students' organization. Competitive exhibits of milk, cream, and butter will be shown, and testing demonstrations will be given.

Mice breeding, to determine the possibility of applying the same principles to live stock breeding, is being studied by Ohio State University students. The students are working now on color inheritance.

Because live stock multiplies slowly, and because breeding experiments in live stock are too expensive, the present experiments are being watched with considerable interest. It has been found that the results can be applied with success to larger animals, materially hastening an understanding of the hereditary characters of live stock and offering breeders a more complete knowledge.

To control the peach leaf curl, horticultural extension experts at Ohio State University are recommending spraying when the buds are dormant, thus killing the curl before it gets established between the scales of the buds. A late fall spray is effective.

A gallon of lime sulphur, to seven gallons of water is a good mixture to spray with. Where an orchard is free from scale, the spray may be weakened to the proportion of one gallon of lime sulphur to 15 gallons of water.

MAYOR SIGNS BONDS FOR LIGHTS AND WATER MAINS

Three issues of notes designed to care for the boulevard lighting system on High, Main and North-sts and the waterworks extensions, were to be signed by Mayor F. A. Burkhardt Monday. The notes total $41,338.

The securities were recently sold to W. L. Slayton & Co., Toledo and were returned to Lima for proper signatures late last week. City Auditor Sellers checked the notes Monday, after which they were to have been signed and returned to the Toledo firm.

Thru sale of the waterworks bonds providing funds for the new water main extensions, approximately 100 men were put to work recently by Service Director McClain. The bonds were sold for $17,820. The boulevard notes were disposed of for $23,518.

GOVERNMENT TO JAR ALL TAX DELINQUENTS

Have you lived within your income?

Did you file your return at the proper time?

This and similar questions will have to be answered when delinquent 1920 income tax-payers are queried by the internal revenue department some time between December 15 and January 1.

The revenue office is checking up on the delinquents and those who failed to file truthful returns.

Revenue offices all over the country are receiving from Washington data compiled from return made by corporations, business concerns and others employing labor.

Notice will be sent out to delinquents soon.

TED JOINS IN SHOPPING RUSH

Ted was out bright and early Monday, all dolled up, prepared to do his Christmas shopping early and take a slant at the Christmas display windows, arranged by merchants for the pleasure of the general public.

Having succeeded in reversing himself and serving rain instead of clear and cold weather on Sunday, the forecaster is doing a little more celebrating.

"Clear and cold" for Monday wasn't altogether borne out in actual conditions, but it matters little to the average citizen. What eventuates in a weather way is taken as a matter of course, for the most part.

It's colder, coal wagons are busy and there are more serious thoughts of winter conditions.

Unsettled tonight and Tuesday is the program ahead, with probable rain or snow in east portion and colder in south portion tonight.

That's isn't so nice!

JURORS TAKEN TO ACCIDENT POINT

$15,000 Suit of Nellie Hayes Against W. O. Opens

Trial of the case of Nellie Hayes, administratrix of the estate of Lelia Hayes, 49, her mother, against the Western Ohio railway company, for $15,000 damages, was begun before Judge F. C. Becker and a jury in common pleas court Monday.

Mrs. Hayes was one of a party of three instantly killed on August 15, 1919, when returning home from Carey, where they had visited the shrine of Our Lady of Consolation.

The accident occurred at a grade crossing in Richland-tp, when an interurban car struck the automobile in which they were riding.

Lavant Corwin, who was driving the automobile, was the only person to escape. Mrs. Margaret Corwin and Mrs. Ethel M. Kissner were killed at the same time.

The suit is one of three for $15,000 each pending against the Western Ohio and which were brought by Nicholas Kissner, as administrator of the estate of his wife, and Dr. R. A. Buchanan, as administrator of the estate of Mrs. Corwin.

Members of the jury were taken to inspect the railroad crossing and the land adjacent to the point of the accident, after opening argument had been made by attorneys.

Taking of evidence was resumed late in the afternoon upon return of the jury. Hearing of the case is expected to require several days.

DISARMAMENT PLANS APPROVED BY OBERLIN MAN IN ADDRESS HERE

"Disarmament" was the subject of a lecture given by Prof. Ian C. Hanna, of Oberlin, Sunday evening at a union meeting of Trinity M. E., Presbyterian and Congregational churches at Trinity church. This marked the second appearance of Prof. Hanna in this city. The church was well filled.

The speaker told of the six tribunals in Europe, which are supposedly along the same lines as the one in Washington today.

Prof. Hanna showed his hearty approval of disarmament plans first and then the eastern question. He spoke of Japan and China as being peaceful countries until Europe meddled with them and that the majority of the wars of the world have been caused thru Europe. He prophesied that our children will see Europe set to one side not as important as the United States, Great Britain and South America.

In a visit to China, the professor was impressed by the splendid culture of the country saying that the Chinese had much to give the world and little to learn from it. He considers the United States, Great Britain and Japan the three greatest nations in the world today.

"If the disarmament conference can put thru what it is attempting it will be a great victory for America, placing her as the foremost nation of the world," Dr Hanna said.

RED CROSS SEEKING AN EX-SERVICE MAN

Home Service section of the Allen-co chapter of the Red Cross sent out a call Monday for George Lewis, ex-service man, recently employed at the Elks temple. Anyone knowing his whereabouts is asked to communicate with Mrs. Irene Mills Jackson, secretary.

Lewis was disabled in the war and additional data concerning his military service is needed to bring his case to satisfactory termination, Mrs. Jackson said.

TWO STATE EXAMINERS COMPLETE TASK HERE

George Gableman, examiner from the state auditor's office in Columbus who has had charge of auditing city books and records, and his assistant, Jason Canfield, have completed their work in Lima and have gone to Bluffton.

Gableman had been in Lima for several months, during which time a complete audit of the city's books and records was made. Canfield arrived more than a month ago to assist in speeding up the work.

GET NEW TAG FOR TOWSER SOON

Dog License Law Requires It, Before January 1

It's just one thing after another. So says the philosopher and so it seems.

This time, in connection with all Christmas worries, is the new tag for the dog. And C. R. Phillips, county auditor, says it's got to come, even over and above Christmas presents.

If you value Towser, then a new tag for him is necessary. Otherwise, his proud head might lie in your back yard some morning and blame could only be attached to the owner.

Under the law, all dogs in the city and county must wear new tags after January 1. To get ready for observance of the law, Phillips will begin selling the tags Thursday, which is December 1.

The little pieces of metal are really attractive this year and add a lot to the appearance of Rover. Whereas, last year they were of octagonal form, this year they are long and with rounded corners and much smaller than those of 1921.

The price for tags for male dogs and spayed females is $1 and for unspayed females is $2.

Fees paid into the office constitute a dog and kennel fund, from which cost of furnishing registration applications, certificates and tags shall first be paid and the balance is to be used for payment of claims on account of horses, sheep, cattle, swine, mules or goats which have been injured or killed by dogs.

FORGER AT WORK

Makes Escape When Lima Merchant Displays Suspicion

A negro, answering closely the description of the man who fleeced Lima merchants on checks stolen from the office of John Tait, paving contractor, worked in Lima Saturday night.

He attempted to obtain cash and merchandise of C. W. Kahn, 213 S. Main-st, but ran out of the store when the merchant started to investigate.

The check, since proved to be worthless, was left behind in his flight. The instrument was drawn in favor of William Jackson, on the American Bank. It was for $18. It bore the signature of George B. Stewart and was stamped "Stewart Construction Co."

The negro appeared to be a laborer, as did the man who worked Lima in September. Back of the negro who passed the checks authorities believe is a clever forger, who draws the instruments and employs others to cash them.

"KIWANIS PLAN" FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYED NEARING $5,000 MARK

Members of the "Kiwanis Plan" relief committee appointed several days ago to raise a $5,000 fund to aid the unemployed, will make its official report at the noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis club in the Argonne hotel, Tuesday noon.

At last reports the committee had obtained more than 400 signatures.

When the required number of names, each signator agreeing to give $10 toward the fund, is received, the blanket note will be deposited in various quotas in Lima banks. The $5,000 fund thus subscribed will then be available for use of the Social Service bureau for its use as stipulated in the agreement.

The first monies received from the 1922 Community Chest fund will be used to liquidate the note.

"BUSINESS FUMBLES" EXPLAINED TO ROTARY

"Catching Punts" was the text of a message brought to the Rotary club by Thomas J. Smull, former secretary of the Ohio Normal University, at the noonday luncheon, Monday, at the Norval Hotel.

Smull's remarks proved entertaining. Smull detailed how many opportunities are let slip because of business "fumbles."

Attendance records for Rotary members have shown material increase during the past several months, there now being the largest weekly attendance at the popular noon luncheons than at any time during recent months. The report shows that 157 Rotarians attended the luncheons at the Norval hotel during November.

BROTHER MEMBER OF ELKS TO BE HONORED IN DEATH

Funeral services for J. William Haller, deputy in the office of Guy Custer, county recorder, who died Saturday night, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at St. Paul's Lutheran church. The Rev. Paul Brosey, pastor, will officiate. Interment will be at Woodlawn.

Haller was a member of Lima lodge, No. 54, B. P. O. Elks, and had a wide acquaintance over the city and county. Elks will attend the service in large number. Haller also took an active part in the church.

Death followed an illness of some months, from a complication of diseases. The body is at the home of a sister, Mrs. O. A. DeWeese, 958 W. Wayne-st.

HOSPITAL BUILDER RECOVERS HIS CAR

J. G. Lorimer, Columbus, spent Sunday night in Lima on his return home with his Stutz car which was stolen November 22 by five prisoners who escaped from the London prison farm.

The prisoners, headed for Toledo, got as far as Pandora, Putnam-co, with the car and abandoned it when the gasoline supply was exhausted.

Lorimer will be remembered here as superintendent of the construction of the Lima State hospital.

DOCTOR WOULD PREVENT MOTHERHOOD BY USE OF KNIFE; IS KNOWN HERE

While it is not definitely known, it is believed that the Dr. Ray Sunderland, Denver, who recommended in a Colorado court of law Saturday that a woman who is already the mother of five children be deprived of her power of motherhood by an operation, is a former resident of Lima.

According to word reaching here, Dr. Sunderland made the recommendation after the woman had been arraigned on a complaint that her home was filthy and that her five children had been neglected and were undernourished.

Mrs. D. F. Sunderland, 836 Brice-av, told a Lima News reporter Monday she has a son in Denver who is a doctor and that his name is Ray.

If this doctor is the son of Mrs. D. F. Sunderland, he is well known here and attended grade studies at the Byrd school, near Hume. He is married to a former Spencerville girl.

Mrs. D. F. Sunderland refused to discuss the matter with a News reporter over the telephone. She did not respond when the reporter called at her home.

EARLY BUYING HAS BEEN STARTED

Christmas Display Week Opens in Gratifying Manner

Lima merchants Monday reported that Saturday was one of the biggest Christmas shopping days to be experienced so far this season.

The "Shop Early" spirit has been injected into thousands of Lima buyers and they are intent on getting in on the first pick of the immense holiday stocks, apparently.

The "Do It Now" hunch has spread far out into the surrounding buying territory and on Monday, despite the inclemency of the day, large delegations of Christmas shoppers were in Lima.

Christmas Display Week has apparently been awaited with eagerness by a multitude of Santa's proxies and a big jump in sales in all stores was reported the first day of the big event, arranged by the Lima Merchants' association for the satisfaction and convenience of Lima and Allen-co Christmas shoppers.

With one or two exceptions, all downtown store windows had been appropriately decorated Monday afternoon with Christmas Display Week showings. Three judges selected by the Lima Ad Club will judge the windows Wednesday afternoon and evening and will Thursday name the winner of the silver loving cup to be presented by The Lima News to the merchant having the best decorated window, typical of Christmas.

It is again recalled that those who shop now will have the choice of the wonderful holiday stocks before they are picked over. It is brought to mind that more efficient service may be had from sales forces, and that those who "Do-It Now" will have the best opportunity of having the Merriest Christmas.

Denies Forcing Girl Against the Door

SAN FRANCISCO — (By Associated Press) — Roscoe C. Arbuckle took the stand today in the manslaughter case against him.

Arbuckle said he came to San Francisco from Los Angeles September 3 and stopped at the Hotel St. Francis. He named the guests at the party in which he is alleged to have fatally injured Virginia Rappe, saying that he invited no one to the party but Mrs. May Taube.

Arbuckle said he had an engagement to go out with Mrs. Taube a few minutes after Miss Rappe is alleged to have been injured by him.

"I found Miss Rappe in my room. She was on the bath room floor very sick. I assisted her.

GAVE HER WATER

"She was holding her abdomen and I gave her some water."

"While I assisted her, Miss Prevost and others entered the room. I went into another room and when I came back Miss Rappe was on the bed tearing her clothing.

Arbuckle told of taking Miss Rappe from the room and into another room with the assistance of Harry Boyle, assistant manager of the hotel. The door leading from his room to the corridor and a window of the room were open, he said.

"I did not hear Miss Rappe say 'he hurt me' or say anything that could be so understood," he testified.

He denied having forced Miss Rappe against a door or having told Alfred Semnacher, a guest of the party, that he applied ice to Miss Rappe's body.

He denied testimony by Jesse J. Norgard, janitor of the Culver City, Calif., motion picture studio, that he offered Norgard a sum of money for the key to Miss Rappe's room.

His direct examination was finished at 10:50 a. m.

"GOLDEN RULE" NASH DECLARES PRINCIPAL ESSENTIAL IN BUSINESS

"I am going to follow the Light, whether it means a triumphal march into Jerusalem, or the Cross of Calvary," declared Arthur "Golden Rule" Nash, Cincinnati wholesale clothing manufacturer, to an audience that packed the Market-st Presbyterian church, Sunday afternoon.

Asked whether the Golden Rule policy was essentially constructive in modern business, Nash replied:

"I might as well go to some large university and ask whether the law of gravitation is necessary. The Golden Rule principle in modern business methods is as necessary to its success as the law of gravitation is to the universe.

"The Golden Rule is one of the fundamental rules of God, applied to human relationship. Without it we would not succeed. The Golden Rule now, during the recently past and present period of business depression, has saved the country's industries," Nash said.

A large strike in Bedford, Ind., involving several thousand workers, was directly avoided by the same talk Nash gave in Lima Sunday, he declared.

"They realized the Golden Rule principle and refused to call the threatened walkout after I had talked to them," Nash declared Sunday.

DID NOT RULE ON OPERATION

Colorado Judge Denies Report as to Woman's Case

DENVER—(By Associated Press) Judge Royal R. Graham of Georgetown, today denied that he had recommended in court an operation for Mrs. Clyde Cassidente of Denver, that would make it impossible for her to bear any more children, declaring he only told a reporter such an order might be entered under certain circumstances.

"After the case had been adjourned," said the judge, "I did remark to a reported that an order directing such an operation might be entered if an investigation disclosed conditions that would make it necessary and if the consent of the parties concerned could be obtained, but as to forcing Mrs. Cassidente to submit to such an operation, that was farthest from my mind."

Mrs. Clyde Cassidente was haled before Judge Graham, sitting in the juvenile court here Saturday, on complaint of Denver social workers, to show cause why her children should not be removed from her custody, the complaint alleging that the Cassidente home was filthy and that the children had been neglected and were undernourished.

At the hearing one of the witnesses, a medical student, stated he believed the only remedy for conditions in the Cassidente home would be a sterilizing operation for the mother, as according to the witness the woman was bearing children too fast. There are five Cassidente children, the oldest eight years old and the youngest about a year old.

Discussing the case after it had been given wide publicity, Judge Graham said:

"As to the justice or advisability of such an operation, I do not care to comment. Certainly there is no law that would permit such a ruling."

FIGHT RENEWED FOR WILLIS AND DONOVAN

Battle to free George Donovan and Joe Willis, bandits, was renewed before the Ohio Supreme court in Columbus by counsel for the convicted bandits Monday.

Date for the hearing will not be set until briefs are submitted.

The petition alleges that the trial court erred in the admission of evidence and the verdict contrary to the weight of the evidence.

"WOMEN IN POLITICS--ABOVE ALL THEY SHOULD BE WOMANLY"

That's Advice From Oklahoma Woman Assistant Attorney-General

OKLAHOMA CITY — (Special) — "Above all things, a woman should strive to be womanly."

That's advice to women office seekers from Mrs. Kathryn Van Leuven, Oklahoma's first woman assistant attorney general.

And she practices what she preaches. For besides being one of the state's leading legal minds, she's:

A devoted mother.
An expert horsewoman.
A champion bridge player.
And a good cook!

Mrs. Van Leuven is anything but a picture of judicial severity. She's a dainty little woman—she's five feet two inches tall and weighs only 112 pounds. She has laughing brown eyes, soft black hair and a youthful face.

In her office she wears a simple blue dress that hangs straight to her shoetops and makes her look more like a debutante than a legal light.

"Science doesn't eliminate the woman," she says.

Mrs. Van Leuven married Judge Van Leuven when she was 17 and at 19 became a mother. She learned law largely thru assaciation with her husband and a group of brilliant colleagues.

When her husband died she passed a bar examination with the highest credit among 165 applicants.

She practiced law for a year, then served as county attorney. Then she came to her present office.

She was appointed by Attorney General Prince Freeling, one of the

Letters To Lovers

(BY WINONA WILCOX)

To the lovers' vocabulary, to everybody's vocabulary, a new word has lately been added for common use. It is "psychology," pronounced "si-kol-o-gy" with the accent on the second syllable.

The psychology of dress is an old subject: a shave is closely related to business success and rouge to romance. There's a certain psychology in furnishing a house, we are told by artists. Domestic science experts say that the appearance of food affects the consumer psychologically. The morale of the soldier is a matter of psychology.

And lovers, true or false, are either one or the other for reasons which psychology alone can explain.

Psychology is the science of the mind. It explains why we are what we are, why we do what we do. The mind, acting consciously or unconsciously, is behind human behavior, except when it is automatic, as in breathing. Therefore psychology has been called "the science of human life."

From the beginning, so the newest branch of the science tells us, man has been ruled by three urges, foo safety and sex. There are many others, but these dominate the rest.

One authority places the sex urge before all others, but clearer thinkers argue that the food urge comes first, that self-maintenance precedes reproduction in the individual life. They seem to argue logically, without food and shelter, the human being perishes and reproduction becomes impossible.

Medical science has discovered a variety of germs which thrive in the human organism and destroy it. Most persons who are able to read pride themselves upon a little information about how to avoid disease and how to get well and keep well.

It is reasonable to suppose that the same persons would pride themselves still more upon a little store of knowledge about the human instincts, or inherited habits of mind. Some of these habits, if persisted in, make for character; and some, if perverted, destroy character as surely as poisons or toxins destroy the body.

"My mother has shut down on 'petting parties,' Wails HIGH SCHOOL GIRL.

Psychology explains, why mother is right, why petting parties are bad, as well as why men and women marry the wrong mates, why mothers cling to husbands in loveless marriages, and a thousand other complexes of the human spirit.

"Psychology" is not a word "to skip" in reading. It may often interpret some tremendous tale of adventure or tragedy.

In these letters to lovers, it will hereafter be used frequently as the only means of interpreting some problems. For instance, in the next letter, it will be applied to that popular pastime, the petting party.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart:

I AM an engaged girl of 21 years of age. My fiance has a fairly good position now, but these days it costs so much to live I am afraid we might have to be very careful to get along. As I say, his position is good, but till there seems to be little chance for advancement. There are so many cases today where young married couples have such a time trying to get along that I do not know what to do. I love this man and would do anything in the world for him, but I can't decide what to do in this case. Do you think I should break our engagement? He is a splendid young man.

JEAN

YOU love your fiance deeply; you would do anything in the world for him—even break your engagement with him because you feel you might have to practice a little economy if you were to marry him. Certainly that is "sufficient" proof of your strong love and devotion toward him. Be reasonable, Jean. If the young man is as splendid as you say, if he loves you and wants to make you happy, you may feel very confident that he would not ask you to marry him if he was not certain he could provide for you properly.

Your letter indicates you are inclined to borrow trouble. For your own sake and for the sake of the man, whom you eventually may marry, you should cultivate a more cheerful and optimistic state of mind. You can cause yourself much unnecessary unhappiness by persistently looking on the dark side of things.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

Would you please tell me how to clean a raincoat? Mine is rather dirty and I know it would look much improved if it was cleaned up some.

N. Z.

To clean your raincoat spread it out on the kitchen table or the longest bench you have. You can take a washboard, doing a section at a time. In that way the water runs away. Make a soap solution with soap flakes and lukewarm water. Scrub the coat all over vigorously with a good, firm, nice straw brush. If the coat is extremely dirty, do the whole thing twice, the second time with fresh water and soap. Then rinse it three times. If the soap is left in, it streaks the coat and makes it dingy. Have the first two waters lukewarm and the last cold. Put one tablespoonful of acetic acid to each gallon of water for the last rinsing. See that all the water is out of the pockets when hung up to dry or bad acid stains will appear. Dry in a cool place.

Water Rent may be paid beginning Dec., 1st. If not paid by January 20th, 10% penalty will be added and water turned off. When water is turned off. When water is turned off for delinquency, $1.00 will be charged for turning on.

FIGURES FOR THOUGHT.

USUALLY, there is no sort of proposition coming up that is satisfactory to everyone of the average national family, but so far as Lima is concerned, no one residing in this desirable city has been heard to oppose the plan of disarmament of nations, or limited armament, as a safeguard against war.

However, if any there be, a few facts that are available may cause them to change their view of the situation. About the best way for the average citizen to view the cost of armament is in terms of everyday life, in terms of schools, dwellings, groceries, automobiles. This has been done by William G. Shepherd, the famous war correspondent.

Shepherd points out that we have a bill of over one billion dollars to pay next year and that every citizen pays from 25 to 50 cents a day for war purposes. Until the United States disarms and finds a way to get other nations to do the same thing, this payment we make daily for war purposes will never grow less There are only five universities in the United States with endowments as large as the cost of one $22,000,000 battleship.

Due to lack of teachers, 18,300 schools were closed in 1920. The teachers could not live on the salaries offered, averaging $497. The sum of $10,000,000 would reopen all of these schools and keep them open. The new battleships we are building will each cost three times that sum A splendid six room community school for 60 pupils costs $10,000. Battleships are armed with 12 to 16 16-inch guns at $240,000 each The cost of one of these guns would build 20 community schools. With the cost of one battleship you could dot Ohio with 320 new schools.

A fully mounted land gun costs $300,000 and one shot costs $1,300. Six men in Lima would have to draw $200 each from the bank to pay for one shot A hospital large enough for a city of 30,000 costs $200,000. Think of the good a thousand $200,000 hospitals would do in wiping out misery and sickness.

There is little wonder that the hand of most everybody, in Lima as well as all over the land and the whole world, for that matter, is against war and its cost in life, money, misery, woe, want and desolation

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

TUBERCULOSIS kills every third person between 15 and 60.

This terrible creeping disease last year killed 132,000 Americans. The figure would have been 210,000, if it had not been for the active fight against tuberculosis that started 20 years ago.

Healthers say that the war against tuberculosis is saving at least 75 000 lives a year.

The greatest weapon in this warfare is the Red Cross Christmas Seal The Red Cross this year wants the public to buy 32,000,000 of these stamps. The public should respond by buying 10 times that many

These seals will be on sale in Lima immediately Buy them for your letters, cards and packages

Unemployment and housing congestion are powerful allies of the tuberculosis germ. The need for a big sale of Red Cross Seals this year is greater than ever before.

Put a seal on every letter and parcel you mail Make it more—two or three. Thereby you will save lives and protect yourself against tuberculosis.

THE WRONG ROAD

IF it could get into the history books, it would read like this: "Nov. 24, 1921—A Thanksgiving day excursion carried 1000 scientists and professional men to Staten Island, in New York harbor, where they witnessed the tearing down of a chimney, 148 feet high, 47 feet in diameter at the base. Despite the huge size, this smokestack was razed in the record-breaking time of 55 minutes."

The history books would ignore the chimney's usefulness and the fact that it took two months and two days to build it.

History is 98 per cent a record of destruction.

It is designed to teach us what man has done. But it clings almost entirely to recording what man has undone—destroyed.

AN excellent movement is gaining headway in America, to revise history as it is taught in our schools.

What the child gets now is mostly a record of slaughter and destruction—the history of ill will between England and America, North and South, races, religions and politics.

It took over 60 years of organized fighting, and thousands of years of progress, to give our women the ballot. Yet this, under our present system, will get less space in school histories than some battle that took only a few hours and had an infinitely less effect.

What happened in 1776? The Declaration of Independence, of course. But some school histories have forgotten to tell you that in the same year James Watt sold the world's first steam engine.

THE real history of the growth and progress of our country is not a matter of battles or Indians shot by Daniel Boone and other explorers.

The Monitor, which fought the Merrimac in 1862, was the first armored ship. Every school child has had the marvels of that invention drilled into his brain. But he reads mighty little of the more important inventions—typewriter, moving picture, electric light and motor.

History practically ignores the evolution of barbaric government into American democracy, touching, however, with great emphasis, on bloody battles incidental to the progress.

A WORLD, weary of war, wants to disarm, tho it has only partly convinced its diplomats. We are turning from destruction to construction, and the first step in that direction should be a complete revision of history textbooks for schools

School histories now in use lie—not that they do not tell the truth, but because of what they omit.

To revise history, the government might organize a commission of persons high in the public esteem, with intelligence broad enough to enable them to be impartial. For instance —William Howard Taft, Maud Wood Park and Samuel Gompers.

IF THE ARMS CONFERENCE MAKES GOOD!

YOU AND I : COMMENT ON TOPICS OF INTEREST TO ALL

AUDIENCE

A play from England recently failed in New York. Brady theatrical producer, lamented "the decline of the drama in America" and commented that the public wants light stuff.

Now cables says that "Heartbreak House," George Bernard Shaw's latest play, has failed in London. It was too brilliant, not enough intellectuals in London to support it, says its producer. Critics say it had too much talk, not enough action

A producer usually blames the public taste when something uninteresting fails to interest.

SOFT

Too much pampering is weakening the human race, says Prof. Raymond Pearl, of Johns Hopkins University.

In caring for our bodies, most of us take the easiest way. A man puts in half a day, working hard to get his auto in good condition. Suggest that he devote as much exercise to his body, and he scowls

Soft living is a direct road to bad health. Exercise, to keep your joints from rusting, your system from accumulating poisons. A brisk daily walk will add years to your life.

FRIGHTFUL

A flying torpedo, controlled by wireless, has been perfected by Uncle Sam. It can be sent a distance of 200 miles and made to drop exactly where wanted.

Frightful weapons like this make it obvious that real disarmament cannot be brought about by scrapping navies or limiting standing armies.

The world must disarm mentally —attain a universal hatred of war— before the god of war can be securely caged.

Modern disarmament should begin in the laboratory, as well as the steel mills and navy yard.

GAIN

Farmers are wondering how much they will benefit by the 10 per cent reduction in carload freight rates on farm products.

The best answer comes from the railroads, which say the cut will cost them $55,000,000 a year.

Divide that up among our 6,500,000 farms and the average farmer's gain would be $8.46 a year. That is, if the farmer gets it.

The reduction is so slight that it apparently is not apt to make any material change either in what the farmer gets or the consumer pays.

BLAZE

A $30,000 fire in Chicago is due to spontaneous combustion, a common fire cause in Lima. Spontaneous combustion is a fire that breaks out, by chemical processes, without a lighted match or other flame to start it.

Flour mills occassionally blow up, spontaneous combustion exploding the flour. Heavy dust on factory rafters often explodes or starts burning the same way.

To avoid spontaneous combustion in your home, keep oily rags and the like in a tin can with the lid on tightly.

IN BED EIGHT MONTHS

Cause—Change of Life. How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Got Me Up

Afton, Tenn.—"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. During the Change of Life I was in bed for eight months and had two good doctors treating me but they did me no good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and in a short time I felt better. I had all kinds of bad spells, but they all left me. Now when I feel weak and nervous I take the Vegetable Compound and it always does me good. I wish all women would try it during the Change of Life for I know it will do them good. If you think it will induce some one to try the Vegetable Compound you may publish this letter." —Mrs. A. KELLER, Afton, Tennessee.

Women from forty-five to fifty years of age should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, palpitation of the heart, smothering or fainting spells, or spots before the eyes, and prepare their system for this perfectly natural change by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has helped many, many women through this trying period, just as it did Mrs Keller.

THE ONE WAY BILL

Each day upon the market pages
The figures show
That table provender and wages
Are getting low;
Yet when I feed my face, anon,
Most anywhere,
The price-slump doesn't show upon
The bill of fare.

The owners of the restaurants,
It's plain to see,
Are all purveying to our wants
So busily
They haven't any time to read
The daily press,
And so don't know the price of feed
Is getting less.

They err thru simple ignorance
Beyond a doubt;
The when food starts in to advance
They'll find it out.
They'll sense the market's upward range
And, then and there,
You'll see the prices quickly change
On bills of fare!

THE WHITE MOLL

By FRANK L. PACKARD

"Light the candle. I can't find my matches."

Her hand was on her automatic in the pocket of her skirt as he shuffled his way to her side. The candlelight dispersed the nearer shadows—and there come a startled cry from Danglar.

The Adventurer was sitting on the edge of the cot, and a revolver in his hand held upon Danglar and herself.

"Both of you! What charming luck!" he murmured whimsically. A friend of mine, the Sparrow, opened the door for me, and locked it again on the outside."

"Don't move Danglar—or you, Mrs. Danglar!" he ordered sharply—and he whipped Danglar's revolver from the latter's pocket. "Pardon me!" he said—and his hand was in and out of Rhoda Gray's pocket. He tossed the two weapons coolly over onto the cot.

"Won't you sit down—Mrs. Danglar?" The Adventurer pushed the chair toward her. She remained motionless. You'll pardon me, then, if I sit down myself." He appropriated the chair, and faced them, his revolver in his hand. "Do you mind if I inflict a little story on you? It concerns the murder of a man named Deemer. My name, my real name, is David Holt. My father was in the American consular service in India when I was about ten. He went into business there thru the advice of a very warm friend of his, a certain very rich and powerful rajah in the Province of Bengal, where we lived. I became an equally intimate friend of the rajah's son, and—do I bore you, Danglar?"

Danglar was like a crouched animal

"What's your proposition?" he snorled. "Curse you, name your price, and have done with it! You're as big a crook as I am!"

"You are impatient! In due time the rajah decided that a trip thru Europe and back home thru America would round out his son's education in a way that nothing else would. It was also decided, to my delight that I should accompany him. In a certain city in the Middle West the young rajah met with an accident. He was riding in the outskirts of the city. His horse took fright and dashed for the river-bank. He was an excellent horseman, but pitched from his seat, his foot became entangled in the stirrup, and as he hung head down, a blow of the horse's hoof rendered him unconscious. A man by the name of Deemer, at the risk of his own life, saved the rajah's son. The horse plunged over the bank and into the water with both of them. Deemer half drowned himself, stayed with the maddened animal until he had succeeded in freeing the unconscious man. All this was some two years ago.

"The rajah's son remained at the hotel there for several days to recuperate," continued the Adventurer; "and during that time he saw a great deal of Deemer, and, naturally, so did I. And, incidentally, Danglar, I saw something of you; and something of Mrs. Danglar there, too."

He shrugged his shoulders as Danglar snarled. "Yes, yes; I am almost thru. While it was not made public thruout the country, inasmuch as the rajah's son was more or less an official guest of the government, the details of the accident were of course known locally, as also was the fact that the young rajah in token of his gratitude had presented Deemer with a collection of jewels of almost priceless worth. We resumed our journey; Deemer, who was a man in very moderate circumstances, went to New York, presumably to have his first real holiday, and to dispose of the stones, or at least a portion of them. When we reached the coast we received two advices containing very ill news. The first was an urgent message to return instantly to India on account of the old rajah's serious illness; the second was that Deemer had been murdered by a woman in New York, and that the jewels had been stolen.

"I will not attempt to explain to you," he went on, "the young rajah's feelings when he heard that the gift he had given Deemar in return for his own life had cost Deemar his. Nor will I attempt to explain the racial characteristics of the people of whom the young rajah was one. But an eye for an eye, Danglar—you will understand that. If it cost all he had, there should be justice. He could not stay himself; and so I stayed.

"I came East again. I remembered you, Danglar—that on several occasions when I had come upon Deemer unawares, you, sometimes accompanied by a woman, had been lurking in the background. I went to Cloran, the house detective at the hotel here in New York where Deemer was murdered. He described the woman. She was the same woman that had been with you. I went to the authorities and showed my credentials, with which the young rajah had seen to it I was supplied from very high sources indeed. I also made myself known to one of New York's assistant district attorneys, who was an old friend of my father's. And then, Danglar, I started out after you.

"I wormed myself into your gang as the Pug. A little while ago I found out that the woman we wanted—with you, Dangler—was your wife, living in this garret as Gypsy Nan. But the jewels themselves were still missing. To-night they are not. A—friend of mine has them, and has told me they would be handed to the police.

"And so, Danglar, I sent the Sparrow out to gather together a few of the authorities interested in the case; Cloran the house detective; Rough Rorke of headquarters, and enough men to make the round of arrests. They are hidden across the road, waiting for my signal. I hardly expected the luck to get you both at the same time; though we should have got you, Danglar, and the rest of the gang before morning, and—"

"You," Rhoda Gray whispered, "you are not a thief!"

The Adventurer half rose—but it was Danglar who spoke.

"It's a lie!" he screamed out. "It's all a lie! I never heard of this rajah bunk! I never heard of Deemer, or any jewels before. You can't prove it; you can't—"

"But I can," said Rhoda Gray. The shawl fell from her shoulders; she held out the package of jewels to the Adventurer. "I got them in old Luerts's room. I was hidden there at the time last night." She removed her spectacles and her wig of tangled gray hair as she spoke, and she turned her face full upon Danglar. "I heard you discuss Deemer's murder with your brother last night, and plan to get rid of Cloran, and—"

"Great God!" The Adventurer cried out. "You—Rhoda! The White Moll!—I don't understand."

He was on his feet. He took a step toward her.

"Wait!" She glanced at Danglar. "That night at Skarbolov's!" she said. "Gypsy Nan, this man's wife, died that night. I helped her get to the hospital. She wanted to prevent a crime planned for that night, but she would not inform on her accomplices. She begged me to forestall them, and return the money anonymously. I—I was caught. You—saved me from Rough Rorke, but he followed me. I put on Gypsy Nan's clothes, and managed to outwit him. The only way I could prove my innocence was to find the authors of the crime myself. I have lived since then as Gypsy Nan. Tonight I knew enough at last about this man to make him give me a written statement that it was a pre-arranged plan to rob Skarbolov. That would substantiate my story. And"—she looked again at Danglar; the man was eyeing her with mad light in his eyes—"and he must be mad to—to do it now for—"

"But why didn't you ask me?" cried the Adventurer. "You knew me as the Pug, and must have believed that I, too, knew all about it."

"I thought you were a thief, and—and your testimony wouldn't have been much good unless, with it, I could have handed you over to the police, and—and—I—I couldn't do that, and—"

"Rhoda! Rhoda!" There was a buoyant note in the Adventurer's voice. "I see! Well, I can prove it for you now. I went to Skarbolov's mlself to do exactly what you did. I did not know you then, and, as Rough Rorke had taken the money from you, I contrived to let you get away, because I was afraid that you were some member of the gang, and that I must watch you, too! I had not got the general warning that was sent out to the gang that night to lay low."

He came cloes to her—and with the muzzle of his revolver he pushed Danglar's huddled figure back further against the washstand. "Rhoda——you are clear. The assistant district attorney who had your case is the one I spoke of a few minutes ago. That night at Hayden-Bond's I knew that you were the bravest, truest little woman into whom God had ever breathed the breath of life. I told him the next day what happened at Hayden-Bond's. You have never been indicted. Your case has never come before the grand jury. And it never will now! Rhoda! Rhoda! Thank God it has all come out right, and ——"

A peal of laughter, insane, horrible, rang through the garret. Danglar made a sudden dash—and Rhoda Gray, divining his intention, sprang for the cot. But as Rhoda Gray caught up the weapons and thrust them into her pocket, the two men locked in each other's embrace.

The Adventurer's voice reached her:

"Show the candle at the window, Rhoda! Then open the door for them."

She waved the candle frantically several times across the pane, set the candle on the window ledge, and ran for the door.

With a crash, both men went to the floor—and the Adventurer was underneath. She cried out in alarm, and wrenched the door open. There were footsteps in the hall below, many of them. She stepped out on the laning; it was too dark to see, but——

A yell reached her from below.

"The White Moll!"

She flung herself flat down. That was Pinkie Bonn's voice. It was the gang arriving.

She fired once—twice—again, over their heads, to check the rush.

Yells answered her. The spat, spat of bullets sounded from behind her as they struck the walls.

Again she fired. No one seemed anxious to be first. Glancing around she saw the Adventurer whip a terrific blow to Danglar's face—and Danglar fall and lie still—and the Adventurer come leaping toward her.

"The police! The police behind us!" Shulker's voice shrieked out.

She jumped to her feet. The Adventurer was fighting hand to hand.

"Quick! Quick!" she cried to him. "Jump back through the door."

"Oh, no, you don't, you she-devil!" Skeeny shouted, and struck her a glancing blow on the head with his clubbed revolver.

"Jump!" she cried again, and staggered over the threshold. The Adventurer leaped backward beside her, she slammed the door, locked it—and slid limply to the floor.

When she regained consciousness she was lying on the cot. The Sparrow was standing there watching her.

"Marty," she said, and smiled, "we—we owe you a great deal."

"Gee, you're all right again! You had me scared. You don't owe me nothin,' Miss Gray. I'm gettin' a lot more than is comin' to me, 'cause that gent friend of yours says I'm goin to horn in on the rewards, and they got the whole outfit from Danglar down, and the stuff up in the ceiling there, too."

The Adventurer came toward the cot.

"Better?" he called cheerily.

"Yes," she said. "Quite! Only I—I'd like to get away from here, and back to—to my flat if they'll let me. Are—are they all gone?"

"Nearly all!" he said softly. "And—er—Sparrow, suppose you go and find a taxi!"

The Sparrow retreated through the door.

"Your friend—the assistant district attorney—did he come?"

"Yes," said the Advanturer. "He wants to see you in the morning."

"To see me"—anxiously—"in the morning?"

"Rhoda," he said gently, "I knew tonight in the iron plant that you cared. I told him so. He wants to tell you that he thinks I am the luckiest man in all the world. You are clear, dear. Even Rough Rorke is singing your praises; he says you are the only woman who ever put one over on him."

With a little sob of glad surrender she buried her face on his houlder. "It—it is very wonderful," she said brokenly, "for—for even we, you and I, each thought the other a—a thief."

"And so we were, thank God!" he whispered. "We were both thieves, Rhoda—for we have stolen each others' heart."

THE END.

SWEET STRANGER

BY BERTHA RUCK

American lady kindly tell British officer and his sister finders of the mascot where it should be returned?"

(Next day.)

"The owner of the little jade god thanks British officer and his sister, and would be so much obliged if they will forward mascot to Box 033."

At the theatre that night I asked him, "Did you send off the green god?"

"What? Oh, yes, I sent him off this morning."

(Two days later)

When he opened the Times at breakfast I saw Jim smile.

"Jim, what does she say?" I asked, eagerly.

"Pass the marmal do, Mouse, will you? Thanks. What does who say?"

"You know perfectly well. What has that American girl got to say in the Agony Column this morning?"

Jim grinned. "How'd you know she's got anything to say?"

"Jim!"

He chuckled. "Impatient, aren't you?"

I leaned over the teapot and snapped the paper out of his hand. This was what I read:

"British Officer in the Tube, July 4. I dropped a green god. Haven't you, as you say 'dropped a brick'? —America."

"Jim! What did you say with that charm you sent back? Or....Jimmy wasn't it her own green god that you sent?"

"Er....No. Not that actual one, as a matter of fact," said Jim. "I sent her a jade charm, all right. Another one, he confessed. "Rather a neat little gadget. I got it at that shop on the same side as Asprey's, a bit higher up."

Dismayed, I exclaimed: "Oh, Jimmy, you oughtn't to have done that!"

"Why?"

"Why? What must she have thought of you? Keeping her charm. Sending her a new one from the most expensive place in town. Don't you see you made the whole situation different at once?"

Jim's eyes grew stendier. "Yes, I know that. I wanted 'the situation different,' I—I want to see her again, Mouse."

"Obviously, dear old thing. But the Agony Column! Sending a present——!"

"But, dash it. She saw us. She must have seen that we were all right."

I shook my head at him. "Why should she see we were 'all right'?"

"Well, my dear Kid—— You'd know?"

"Jim, we're British. But that girl was an American. Different races are —different. You know how often the dear French are shocked by 'the Brittanic levity.!"

"But Americans! Heavens, we come from the same people, we talk the same language——"

"She mightn't think the same thought as you. My dear," said I ruefully. "I'm afraid she minded what you did."

"Oh, Lord! Mouse, I thought that was a joke about my dropping a brick."

I said, "D'you mind telling me what you did say when you sent the thing?"

"Not a bit," said my twin briskly. "I just put: 'America: This comes with all good wishes and homage from British Officer in the Tube.' If she'd minded so awfully, would she have signed this," he took up the paper, "by the name—I gave her?"

Presently he handed to me a scribbled-over envelope:

"Did Cousin America mind? Distressed if so. Won't she let me keep her mascot in exchange? If not, will she very kindly let British Officers and his sister call on her to restore her property. Anxiously await reply. Please answer Box 109."

(Later)

Came the morning of the answer.

"Are you going to be allowed to see that girl," I demanded, "or are you not?"

Jim smiled "I hope so. It's on the knees of the gods. The little green gods what?"

I snatched up the paper. I read the message:

"British Officer: Let it go at that, as am sailing today.—Cousin America."

"Well, dear old boy, this is the end of that."

"The end? Oh, no, I don't think so, Mouse. This is the beginning. We can go to America, too. Why not?"

One month from that date we were packing up for our journey to the States. Our passports got thru on grounds of "business contacts" with property in Philadelphia, Pa."

"Do you mean," I gasped, "that you had the cheek to describe as 'property' that two and a half-dollars' worth of shares that Uncle James had forgotten about—"

"I always thought we ought to go and look into those American shares," declared my twin. "We'll let the Old Place and go. Now's our time."

'And on what pretext do I get across?" I suggested in a faint voice.

"'Pretext'? Why, you're my nurse, of course," I was informed. "My sister, who has to give me massage daily for the muscles of my wounded wrist."

(Later. On board R. M. S. "Celtonia," first day out.)

What a strange new world. "Board ship!" Jim, of course, is perfectly at home in this chaos of strangers. It's going to be a perfectly beastly time!

(Seventh day out.)

Well! Early in the afternoon I ran below to inquire after the Anglo-Indian Colonel's pretty silver-haired wife; for she hadn't come to lunch. In the saloon the jazz-band was making their shattering din, practising.

When I came back the group had gone. All except that young man who had been playing the piano. He struck a chord. He sang.

"Sweet Stranger," the song began,

"Sweet stranger—
The danger—
Is only for me—"

"What is that out of?" I asked.

"It's just a song. Did you like it?"

"Yes, I'd like to read the words."

"I'll write them out for you. I was only singing the thing from memory."

Later, he brought to me a half-sheet of ship's notepaper, with the red crest of the line above the verse he'd written out. Afterwards I walked on deck with my new friend, the slim Air Pilot. His name is Morris — Stephen Gabriel Morris.

(Ninth day out.)

All day we have been together. He, the slim pilot, has talked so much to me. About his "folk"; mother who was an American, father whose people came originally from County Clare. About his engineering college that he left to join up, about his time in Europe, about his flying.

This evening we found a nook to perch in below the lifeboats that bulwark this ship.

"Why," he asked, apropos of nothing, "does your brother call you 'Mouse'? It's not a bit like you."

"My real name is 'The Lamb,' Agnes, you know."

"Oh Lord," said he "And you haven't even a second name!"

"Yes, I have. 'Dilys.' It's a Welsh name; rather like the French 'Delice.'"

A silence. Then his voice, with a queer little catch in it. "That means 'Delight,' doesn't it? That would be the name for you that any one would use if they if they . . ."

He stopped dead.

"I think I'll go in," I stammered.

He opened for me the door to the companion steps — straight on to my twin brother.

Jim looked hard at me. "You're very late," said he. "D'you know what the time is?"

(Tenth day out.)

Fog! Fog over the banks. As for my companion of the last three days, the fog might have swallowed him up for all I've seen of him.

(Later.) No moonlight tonight. Rain lashed the decks, driving all passengers within. They danced between the tables in the saloon. The slim pilot was talking to Claudia Crane, the English writer.

(Eleventh day out.)

I saw it in one sunlit flash as we were drawn up along side of that grimy warf in Halifax.

A knot of people were cheering, waiting to meet their men, and I had already noticed the girl. He the slim pilot, had just shaken hands with Jim, with Claudia Crane and me. Then he was off down the gangway as a girl in pink ran up to it. Not his sister. Ah, you can tell sisterly kisses. Besides, one could see that they were engaged.

(Thirteenth day out.)

I slipped my arm into Jim's as we gazed forward.

Above the Hudson waters she towered ahead of that great line of buildings such as our country does not see. Bronze-green against pearly clouds, that stately figure stood, her giant arm up-flung in greeting and in welcome to the world.

BILLY EVANS SHOWS BASKETBALL'S GREATEST FAULTS?--SAYS FOUL RULES TEND TO SLOW UP GAMES

BY BILLY EVANS

IS basketball as popular a game as it should be?

Recently I put that question to a number of the country's leading coaches.

The answer in every case was the same, basketball had not achieved the popular favor that it deserved.

I asked each coach for his reason for so thinking. Once again the opinion was unanimous, "the foul rule is all wrong."

The life and popularity of any sport is largely determined by the action it contains. It is action that thrills the spectators. Basketball has plenty of action when the referee or umpire isn't busy calling fouls. In most of the games I have seen in the last two or three years, the officials have been the most active individuals on the floor.

FREE THROWS TOO FREQUENT

Too many basketball games are won on free throws. Such a result leaves the same taste as having an umpire score the winning run in a ball game by calling a balk. It is too tame a finish for an exciting game.

To illustrate my point, take the eastern college championship of last year. Penn won the championship, yet in four of its ten games it was outscored from the field and in two other games held to a tie score from the field. Penn won the championship because it had a clever man at throwing fouls.

That has been the chief fault of basketball for years, too much stress being laid on the foul. Since all coaches and experts are agreed that the foul rule needs revision, it seems certain that some action will be taken at the next meeting of the rules committee.

CHANGES IN SCORING

Here are some of the suggestions that will tend to take away some of the importance that is now attached to the throwing of fouls. As a matter of fact, basketball as now played is a game of specialists, in which the expert on the throwing of baskets from the foul line is featured.

1. Award a point or a half point for every foul called against an opponent.

2. Deduct a point or a half point for every foul called against a team.

3. Whenever a foul is called the ba declared dead, and be given to the off ed side, with the right to put it in without being hampered by guardin

4. Require the opponent of the pl who commits the foul to try the throw.

5. Change the scoring rules as follo Goal from field, 3 points; goal from sonal foul, 2 points; goal from techr foul, 1 point.

The first three suggestions seem bes they place an equal penalty for each fense.

MANUFACTURERS IN TOP PLACE WITH CITY LEAGUE

The Manufacturer's Supply company bowling team is safely leading the City league with an average of .533. Out of 12 games played this team has only lost two.

Employes of the Sigma theatre and Banta's Let's Go teams are tied for second place with an average of .583.

Something is wrong with the White Mountain team. They have played 12 games and not one have they won, giving them a sure hold on the cellar position.

Johnson's Iron Men have lost seven out of 12 games which puts them a notch higher than the butter makers.

Seibert, the man who came here from Toledo last summer and who is now managing the Broadway alleys, is high individual scorer with a count of .195.

All games in the City League are being bowled at the K. of C. Recreation alleys.

Logan-Co Boys Lose Game To Apex Eleven

Bellefontaine's boilermakers came to Lima Sunday and were buried in a pond of mud at the Murphy-st ball park by the Apex football team

The visitors were unable to get started and the locals held them scoreless while the home town boys scored 19 points.

Only about 100 fans turned out for the game.

Because of poor support the Apex team will play the remaining games of the season away from home, according to Manager Avres

Free Hitting Is Hard Blow To Base Running

What was the matter with base running in 1921?

Has the science of getting the jump on the pitcher, thereby enabling the runner to beat the throw of the catcher, become a lost art?

A glance at the major league records of last season reveals the fact that there was mightily little base running. Players who three or four years back stole as many as 30 bases didn't reach the double figures last summer.

NOT SLOWING UP

While the records make it seem that the ball players are slowing up, such is not the case. The falling off in base running has simply been due to the conditions that now exist and the style game that is being used.

Last season the stolen base idea was practically shelved. Because of the lively ball, it was figured the hit and run was a much better game to play. One run didn't mean much in 1921. The steal and the sacrifice is the one-run idea of baseball. The hit and run gets them in clusters if successful. This is the big reason for the falling off in the base-running records.

HAVE BIG DESIRES

The lively ball and the great desire to emulate the deeds of Babe Ruth, who became the idol of the world because of his ability to hit home runs, is the other explanation. Those who scout the idea of the lively ball, need only go back 10 years in the records. That season—1911—Frank Baker led the American League in home runs with nine. He was called "Home Run" Baker. This season Babe Ruth led the American League with 59.

Ty Cobb led the American League in stolen bases with 83 in 1911. Seven other players stole more than 40 bases and six players made more than 30. The lively ball and hit and run, not lack of speed on the part of the players, tell the story of the decline in base running.

STARS CAUSE WORRY

Barney Dreyfus and John McGraw would be delighted if there was some way to tie the can on basket ball Maranville of the Pirates and Frankie Frisch of the Giants the two outstanding stars of their clubs, are both hooked up in the basket ball game. Each manages and plays on one of the crack eastern professional teams. The money is so big, that they turn a deaf ear to all suggestions that they are taking big chances of shortening their baseball career because of injuries.

MAY HONOR

It is planned to name the new stadium at Illinois, Hutt Field, in honor of George Huff, present director of athletics at that institution. It would be a well deserved tribute to the man who has done more for athletics at Illinois than any other person who could be named.

IS WEAK ON BUNTS

If Slim Harris of the Athletics could field bunts he would be one of the greatest pitchers in the business. However, it is so far from Slim's head to his feet that he gets all tangled up when he bends over and usually gets the impression that he is playing football the way he kicks the pill around.

FOUR STATE STARS HAIL FROM SAME TOWN

(By BILLY EVANS)

At Ohio State University, Huntington spells football.

Such a statement is a trifle at variance with the usually accepted spelling.

Let me explain. At Ohio State University there are more than 7000 students. These students come from all over the country to get the liberal advantages of a college education.

In these modern days, football is one of the leading advantages offered by our very best universities. Several hundred candidates came out for the varsity football team at Ohio State University in the fall. Only eleven men can play regularly on a football team. That is the big reason why winning a position on the varsity team means so much.

Four of the candidates for the Ohio State team were Johnny Stewart, Hoge and Noel Workman and Frank Honaker. Last year Hoge Workman was the star of the Ohio State team. He would have been just as great this year. However, because of certain restrictions as to his studies, he was unable to play. The other three candidates were the leading stars on Ohio State's great team. That is why Huntington spells football at Ohio State.

What is even more interesting, is the fact that only four students from Huntington, W. Va., are entrate. It is a most unusual thing that all of them should step into football stars, the idols of the student body.

If they came from California and met with such unusual success, the natives out there would say it was the "climate." The Huntington folks simply say, "maybe the credit is due to the old hills of West Virginia."

The most important thing to the student body at Ohio State is the fact there are two more Workman boys and both intend coming to State.

Harry Frazee Ready To Sell Boston Sox

When President Johnson of the American League wills that a certain magnate is undesirable and must go, he usually gets the decision.

Ever since Harry Frazee bought the Boston Red Sox, he has been a thorn in the side of the American League leader. Frazee didn't run a ball club to suit Johnson and soon found it out

STARTED BIG WAR

Frazee in turn started the big war in the American League that resulted in the New York, Chicago and Boston lining up against Johnson and the other five remaining loyal.

Last year was a tough one for the Boston club, despite the fact that the team made a very creditable showing. Since Frazee took charge of the Boston club, the main thing he has done has been selling his star players. This hasn't set very well with the Boston public, who have just naturally quit on the Red Sox.

TWO PURCHASERS

Report has it that Frazee is ready to sell. Report also has it that there are two purchasers for the club. One of them, a close friend of Clarke Griffith, is said to be ready to pay his price.

Thus it looks as if President Johnson was to have his way after all, altho Frazee has proven a rather tough individual to put the skids under. New ownership in Boston would be a great thing for the American League. Incidentally, it would prove a gold mine for the owners, as Boston is a great ball town.

HARVARD CAPTAIN WINS PRAISE

Here is a bit of sportsmanship that deserves to be commented on. It happened in the Yale - Harvard game. Keith Kane, the captain of the Crimson eleven, played the leading role. Harvard had scored a touchdown, which was not allowed because of holding in the line. Several Harvard players asked Umpire Tom Thorpe who had offended.

"It was the man next to center on the short side," said Thorpe. At this moment the Harvard captain came on the scene.

"I was the man next to center and you're right, I was holding." That settled the dispute.

It took a pretty big fellow to make such an admission.

Yale May Play Hawkeye Squad Coming Season

NEW YORK—Tentative negotiations are said to be in progress for a football game in New Haven next season between Yale and Iowa, bringing together, the charges of Tad Jones. Yale's mentor, and his brother Howard, who coaches the Hawkeye lads.

Notre Dame also has been mentioned as a possibility on the Yale schedule next year, but it is believed that Yale will prefer to play a conference eleven in an intersectional contest. Yale already has asked the Army team to return to the bowl in 1922.

Army's One-Eyed Mule Mascot Is Given The Razz

NEW YORK —Jinx, the stubborn one- eyed mule the West Point cadets borrowed from the Fort Bloom Remount Station for a football mascot, has been fired, kicked out.

Braying his dissatisfaction, Jinx started on his homeward journey without a wisp of hay or a single oat. He blinked his good right eye and made a move to project his rear hoofs in the general direction of two cadet muleteers, but they anticipated him.

SUITABLE NAME

If Jinx (he was named after the game) had won Saturday's game, he would have been paraded thru the ball room of a swell hotel and put up for the night in a commodious, hay-filled, oat-lined stall on the roof.

The port eye of the mule is sightless, and the navy's touchdown followed a plunge thru the left end of the Army line.

YALE WILL PLAY WEST

It is a certainty that Yale will play one of the big western elevens next year. It will be either Iowa, Minnesota or Chicago. All three teams are coached by former Yale stars, Jones at Iowa, Williams at Minnesota and Stagg at Chicago.

INTELLIGENCE OF MOVIE AUDIENCE RECOGNIZED

(By ESTHER WAGNER)

EVERY once in a while some writer in The Bookman, the Atlantic Monthly, The Nation and other magazines whose matter appeals to the cognoscenti takes an unholy wallop at the movies.

The art of the movies is decried. Screen players are berated. Ridicule is the lot even of the public which patronizes the motion picture and knows more about it as an industry and an art than thoses who point the finger of scorn at it.

All of this has a distinct reaction on the producer and the exhibitor. This reaction does not tend to the betterment of pictures

Burton Rascoe writes in the current issue of The Bookman, "From data offered by the examination for the draft of the recent war, the National Research Council estimated the intelligence of the average adult male in the United States as that of a normal 14-year-old child. The assumption of various psychiatrists concerning the feminine mean of intelligence is not so flattering."

A publication devoted to the interests of the producer and exhibitor calls attention to this statement and then asks why the industry should go further than providing entertainment for 14-year-old children. It is further pointed out that pictures which do not hold an appeal for children have not been financial successes and producers are urged to make only pictures that are within the understanding of children.

Motion pictures will be better when both producers and critics come to believe that the average intelligence of the adult is an adult intelligence. Perforce, it could be nothing else.

"The Sheik," With Mr. Valentino—It's Colorful

THOSE of us who have read and were so thrilled by E. M. Hull's book "The Sheik" were all at the Faurot yesterday to see the screen version. Some were, I hear, a little disappointed, for altho Rudolph Valentino makes the nicest kind of a sheik, and is so picturesque in the fantastic robes Sheiks are supposed to wear, Miss Ayres is hardly a match for the Diana of the story. Remember her? She had fire, pep! How she fought and sparkled! Miss Ayres is sweet and alluring, but—

Well, the story is of a desert chieftain who beheld and was immediately infatuated with a pretty and headstrong English girl, who, tho her brother heartily disapproved, was determined to cross the desert, with only the Arabs of the caravan as companions.

Since Ahmed, the sheik has marked her for his own, this plan works in beautifully with his.

The rest of the story, of course, is taken up with the capture of Diana and events following the capture. The story is perhaps a more or less trashy one; just the same you don't put the book down till you know what happens to the fair Diana and the dark Ahmed. And that's that.

Rudolph Valentino is wonderful as the sheik, giving to the role a rollicking, boyish, daredevil quality that will make the girls simply rave. All the supporting cast is slendid. There's some beautiful sets and color effects that are lovely. It is also well directed.

"The Sheik" is the special feature today and all this week at the Faurot Opera House. No need to tell you to see it. With Rudolph Valentino in it?

Hardly!

"The Journey's End" Stars Mabel Ballin

THE story of "The Journey's End" is attributed to a Dominican nun, who, in cloistered silence conceived a beautiful plot, its beginning and its ending—Rome.

The tale intimately concerns only three people, a girl and the two men who love her.

The girl, gently reared in an Italian convent, goes to California to share the humble abode of her Uncle. Alas, she finds the "humble abode" a wretched hole where her uncle and his unkempt, uncared for family reside. There is a boarder, however, Donald Regan, who when he sees the girl's distress, carries her off and marries her.

Donald is an ironworker, brawny and uncouth, but his love for the lovely girl develops into a powerful thing that strikes him deep and leaves him inarticulate. It's a love so deep that he lets her think him dead when he discovers how she and the owner of the mill where he is an employe have come to care for each other.

He goes abroad and enters a monastery, where he is discovered by the other two, who are spending their honeymoon in Rome. The shock causes his death. (Most opportune for story purposes, at that).

Mr. Bancroft as the ironworker gives a strong and wonderful performance, and it seems a shame that he should be given such a hectic finish after the good work he does. Wyndham Standing, as the mill owner, is fine, as usual. Mabel Ballin, whom you certainly remember as the heroine of "East Lynn" is beautiful and sincere. Each of the three principals perform not the slightest deed that is questionable. Pure in heart, motive and deed, all of them. Also, the photography and direction, are fine.

"The Journey's End" is another picture to be seen and remembered. It has story interest, finished actors and superb direction. And it hasn't a single-title!

At the Lyric today and until Thursday.

EUROPE'S ILLS TO BE REVEALED

Frank A. Vanderlip Finishing Book on the Subject

WILL OFFER REMEDY IN CASE

Cure Means Good Times for U. S., He Thinks

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) —Frank A Vanderlip is busy putting the finishing touches to a book on the ills of Europe and a proposed remedy he has prepared. He sees good times ahead for the United States if Europe can be assisted back to her feet The last time Vanderlip returned from an investigation of European conditions he predicted most of what has since happened. He was then terrifically bearish.

While I don't know. I rather think his utterances this time will be distinctly less pessimistic and will outline a way out of existing difficulties and demoralization.

What was said here a few days ago about President Lincoln's son, Robert T Lincoln, the present chairman of the Pullman Company aroused widespread comment. The most interesting of the letters received is the following from a wellknown veteran citizen: "I read with interest in today's column your divergence on Robert T Lincoln, because I have often thought that he has a real story to tell—and if he would only 'loosen up' there is perhaps no man who has enjoyed or experienced some of the incidents that he has

"For example, I have been told on excellent authority that he is the only man in America who witnessed the assassination of the three American presidents He was in the theatre at Washington the night his father was shot, because I have a New York Herald of April 16. 1865, which reports that he was in the box behind his father

'He was in Garfield's cabinet—I think as Secretary of the Interior and was walking up to meet Garfield at the union station when Garfield was fired upon

'He was in the receiving line at the Buffalo Exposition—about three down the line—when McKinley was shot.

'I thought the above might interest you, as I think it is one of the oddest experiences I have ever heard of, and certainly most unusual.

"Let me take this opportunity of letting you know how much I think of your column It is, in my opinion, by far the best financial synopsis in any paper or magazine that I know of"

Next to talking about railroads, James J. Hill liked to talk, when among intimates, about his wonderful wife who has just died after an illness dating from his death in 1916. Mr Hill was fond of boasting that every time he left home his grip was packed by Mrs. Hill. Also, that she personally darned his socks and sewed on missing buttons. Unlike the wives of a good many men who gain enormous wealth, Mrs. Hill never developed a craze for keeping her husband on the jump attending theatres or society functions She made things so comfy for him at home that neither he nor she had any disposition to go gadding around Every morning she got up in time to breakfast with him and accompany him to his office Under such home influences, the nine Hill children included no worthless bounders.

I know a few big men who would gladly give up half they possess could they transform their wives into the Mrs. Hill type. A great many men of tremendous responsibilities complain bitterly that their wives constantly inveigle them into squandering time on empty frivolities and thus injure their capacity for doing worth while things.

On the other hand, not a few men who have gained conspicuous success owe their rise very largely to the encouragement and cooperation supplied by their wives.

A prison roof and walls constitute fitting shelters for members of the "Tile Trust" found guilty of conspiring to boost prices illegally. Conspirators in the various building trades have been responsible in no slight degree for the housing scarcity and the rent increases which have imposed heart-breaking hardships on so many people.

When the late J. P. Morgan was indicted, along with Charles S. Mellen in connection with certain New Haven-Grand Trunk Railway maneuvers, he took to bed absolutely inconsolable When, several years later, William Rockefeller was indicted, along with other New Haven directors, he confided to me one day, in very grave tones, that it was not comfortable to be under indictment and to have the responsibility of a prison sentence hanging over one.

These indictments are recalled to mind by the suit brought by a protective committee of Denver and Rio Grande Railroad stockholders against men who were directors of the road. The Stockholders Committee petitions the Supreme Court to compel the directors to account for two hundred million dollars alleged to have been lost thru stock manipulation, conspiracy, collusion and forced and fictitious sales of railroad property.

It is probably well to have this whole Denver and Rio Grande—Western Pacific matter cleared up to the satisfaction of all parties While the standard and character of the men used made it hard to believe for a moment that they would have laid themselves open to the charges made, nevertheless the losses sustained by Denver and Rio Grande security holders have been so heavy that intense bitterness and suspicion have been created The first purchase of securities I ever made was ten shares of Denver and Rio Grande preferred stock I paid about $800 for it I sold it for about $100. Naturally, like other stockholders, I had a feeling that the Denver and Rio Grande got the thin end of the stick in its dealings with the Western Pacific which virtually gobbled up the whole property

If no suggestion of taint attaches to the Denver and Rio Grande directors, they ought to welcome the receipt of a clean bill of health from the Supreme Court. On the other hand—well, let the law take its course.

NEW YORK — Last week's demand for railway shares was resumed in moderate degree at the outset of today's stock market session, the remainder of the list showing no decided trend. Atchison, Chicago and Northwestern, Great Northern, Northern Pacific and St. Paul preferred made fractional gains. The only conspicuous feature in the industrial group was the sale of $4,500 shares of United States Steel at the maximum quotation of 84 1-8, this representing a small fractional advance. Mexican Petroleum rose one point and Crucible Steel, Mercantile Marine preferred, Utah Copper. Associated Dry Goods and Union Bag also were firm. American Beet Sugar preferred and American Linseed common and preferred reacted to selling pressure.

Included among the other strong rails of the morning were Atlantic Coast Line, Louisville and Nashville and the preferred shares of Baltimore and Ohio, Ann Arbor, Lake Erie and Western, and Wisconsin Central, these gaining 1 to 3 points. Railway equipments, especially American Car, Pressed Steel Car and Railway Steel Spring preferred rose 2 to 4 points Specialties were featured by the tobacco group, particularly American, Lorillard and Liggett and Meyers, these rising 2 to 3 1-2 points The only decidedly weak features were Davison Chemical and Sears-Roebuck, which fell 2 and 3 points respectively. Heavy buying of representative bonds continued under lead of Liberty issues, but no new high records were made. Call money opened at five per cent

Railroad and equipment issues led the active list to higher levels today by pressure against specialties and occasional profittaking caused moderate reversals. Sales approximated 850,000 shares.

The closing was irregular. Trading in government bonds was extensive, some of the Liberty and Victory issues repeating or exceeding previous high records.

SELLER OF OWN BLOOD ARRESTED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK — Whether the transfusion of blood from the veins of a drug addict carries with it to the patient a taste for drugs is a question that is causing several New York physicians concern today.

Members of the narcotic squad yesterday arrested James Milo, who sells his blood for transfusion, on charges of being a drug addict. Police say that he has admitted that he has been taking drugs for three months and that he has been used in five blood transfusions during that time

Dr Carleton Simon, head of the narcotic division of the police department, has begun an inquiry to ascertain whether any evil results attended blood transfusions in which Milo engaged.

PICK JURY FOR TRIAL OF GIRL'S ASSAILANTS

NEW BEDFORD, Mass —A special panel of seventy talesmen reported with the regular panel of 41 today for the selection of a jury in the superior court to try John Dies, Benjamin Gomes, and Joseph Andrews, natives of the Cape Verde Islands, charged with assaulting Miss Gertrude Butler after holding up and robbing William O Eldredge, her escort, at Bourne last August.

The case came here on a change of venue, as a result of representations by counsel for the defense that demonstrations against the negroes in Barnstable-co last summer showed that a fair trial there was impossible.

CHICAGO—Reports that the condition of the Kansas winter crop is the lowest ever known for November, had a bullish effect on the wheat market today in the early dealings. Initial quotations, which ranged from 3-8 to 1c higher, with December $1.12 3-4 to 1.13 and May $1.16 to 1 16 1-2, were followed by a moderate reaction and then by upturns higher than before.

Assertions that the close of navigation would bring about stoppage of export business in corn gave some advantage to bears in the corn market. After opening 1-4 lower to a like advance, with May at 54 5-8 to 55, prices underwent a general sag

Oats were easy with corn, starting unchanged to 1-8 off. May 38 1-2 to 38 5-8, and then declining all around

Provisions developed strength as a result of absence of offerings

The corn close was steady at the same as Saturday's finish to 1-8 higher, with May at 54 3-4 to 7 8 to 54 7-8.

The wheat close was unsettled, 3 1-8 to 2 1-2 net higher, with December $1.14 1-2 to 1 14 5-8 and May $1.17 3-4 to 1.17 7-8

Closing prices ranged as follows Wheat, December, 1 14 1-2; May, 1. 17 3-4.

Corn, December, 49; May, 54 3-4.
Oats, December, 33; May, 38 3-8.
Pork, January, 15.20.
Lard, January, 8 52, May, 8.92.

SHORT SHAVINGS

Claude Zartman, park superintendent, says there's a kiddie in his neighborhood he believes will grow up to be a clockmaker. The fond daddy of the kid is the owner of an alarm clock. It wouldn't run.

The child shoved it off a table, to the floor. Now it runs and keeps good time, Zartman says.

Theodore Scheid reports a conversation overheard between two girls in his neighborhood. One of them was saying:

"I put mamma's goloshes nicely out here it's raining again. I'm not going to get them muddy again. Guess I'll lay them away until it stops raining and freezes up."

Fred Fisher, south side realtor, was showing a prospective buyer a residence property. He looked over the premises carefully and noticed a length of garden hose left by the previous occupant. It was attached to a faucet.

The inquisitive one turned on the water to test the hose. He did not think of the nozzle on the other end until the stream of water struck him from behind.

County Treasurer Harry Bothin reports an indignant young woman emerged from the telephone booth in the court house corridor.

"I dropped in a dime," she said, "and I didn't get a nickel back."

Assistant Postmaster Clarence Mumaugh was presented with a memorandum book for notes about things he might forget.

"It's a mighty handy thing," he says. "If I only had some way of remembering to write the notes in it."

FELT TIRED, DULL WORNOUT UNTIL HE TOOK THIS REMEDY

Galion paper hanger's vitality was low; was constipated. Unhealthy kidneys and stomach trouble made him miserable.

"I was one of victims of the Flu and it left me in pretty bad shape. For two years my food hasn't seemed to nourish me but soured causing fermentation which kept my stomach bloated and I never felt comfortable," says Mr. W. M. Davis, who lives at 220 Pershing Ave., Galion, Ohio.

"The people who have known me a long time noticed that I was a sick man. My liver was sore to pressure and I used to be troubled with backache which I believe came from my kidneys. I had headaches, was nervous and my nerves and my bowels were so badly out of order that I was ashamed of myself. I've spent a lot of money and I have been slow about buying any more lately, however. I had to do something for myself, so decided to try Dreco and my judgment has proved correct in taking the chance.

"Three bottles of Dreco have brought about a great change in me. It has removed the soreness over my liver, and in my back; got my bowels to acting regularly, with so much ease and comfort, no more gas collects in my stomach, the nausea and headaches have all gone, and I'm feeling like myself again. No one can doubt why I am so willing to praise this grand medicine, which has done so much good for me."

Dreco is being specially introduced by Hunter's Drug store in Lima and sold by druggists everywhere. adv.

The
U. S. ROYAL CORD TIRE

Unquestionably the outstanding merchandising success of the year—both in the eyes of the trade and of the car-owner.

When the U. S. books close for 1921, they will show U. S. Royal Cord sales nearly doubled over 1920.

What U. S. Tires say and do commands a greater audience than any other line of tires in the world.

Where is the tire dealer headed for in 1922

ALONG about this time of the year the tire-dealer is a much called upon man.

Probably a dozen different "Agencies" for a dozen different tires are hopefully spread before him.

But when he gets off by himself and starts to think he finds out that most so-called Agency Franchises are hardly more than permission to invest his money in this brand or that brand at his own risk.

* * *

Consider now—not what is said in behalf of the U. S. Tire Sales and Service Agreement—but what it does.

Consider general conditions for the past year. And note everywhere that U. S. Tire dealers have been the least affected of all.

Observe how generally the U. S. Tire dealer is respected. Not alone by the public but by his local competitors.

The U. S. Tire dealer always knows where he is at. Right now—or in making his plans for 1922.

He can always put his hands on the U. S. consistent merchandising policy.

* * *

Where the U. S. Sales Franchise separates from the rest and asserts its prerogatives are in these things—

It brings to the dealer's store the greatest and most loyal tire-audience anywhere.

It supports the dealer with the most constructive and courageous publicly expressed policies today.

It carries the prestige of the U. S. Royal Cord Tire and the "USCO" Tread.

It is the most sought after Franchise in the whole tire trade.

U. S. dealers will be the ranking tire-merchants of 1922. Not only in profits returned, but in local reputation as business citizens.

Prices on all U. S. Tires and Tubes Reduced Nov. 10th. Ask your dealer.

MEN AND WOMEN OF LI

Read the Remarkable Results from Tests Made at J Medical College, Philadelphia, of a New Tonic Food

Perhaps you are one of the thousands of men and women today who are run down, tired out and "peppless." You sleep poorly, are easily fatigued and suffer from a high nervous tension. Or you are irritable, easily annoyed by the petty details of your daily task, and approach your work in the morning with a listless and dull dread, instead of with a vim and vigorous enthusiasm.

Such people, who feel themselves on the verge of a nervous breakdown, attribute it to overwork. As a matter of fact this is often far from the truth.

Science has proved that the human brain is so constituted that it can stand a tremendous amount of work—in fact is stimulated by it. But it must have the co-operation of a sound, well-nourished, healthy body. Nine times out of ten those who think they are suffering from under-nourishment. They are not the victims of "nerves" but of Malnutrition.

What is this "Malnutrition" we hear so much about nowadays? Not the lack of food but lack of a balanced ration, lack of the vital elements in the food we eat—the inability of our food to supply the body with those properties most essential for its growth and to sustain life.

Vitamines—the curious growth-promoting, health-giving, yeast, leaf vegetables, eggs and the outer covering of rice, wheat and other cereals, are often eliminated from the modern diet because of scientific milling and over-cooking.

Until those vital elem
